Provide first aid

training—where knowledge + health meet

AMA Skills Training is a business unit of Australian Medical Association (South Australia) Inc., which is the peak representative body for the medical profession formed in 1879. AMA Skills Training is a Registered Training Organisation (RTO No. 40880) under ASQA Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015.

We were established to develop and deliver training specifically for the Primary Health Care sector and to issue parchments/certificates and statements of attainment for nationally accredited qualifications and units of competency.

Our delivery staff include members of the Health workforce who are practitioners with extensive and current experience in the Health Industry.

Unit Description

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide a first aid response to a casualty in line with first aid guidelines determined by the Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) and other Australian national peak clinical bodies.

The unit applies to all persons who may be required to provide a first aid response in both the workplace and community settings.

The training covers

- How to respond to an emergency situation
- Apply appropriate first aid procedures
- How to perform CPR
- Using an Automated External Defibrillator (AED)
- How to communicate details of the incident
- Review the incident
